INTRODUCTION

Gina L. Osborn has spent more than three decades leading in environments where uncertainty is high, information is incomplete, and the consequences of a decision can be significant.

Gina began her career as a U.S. Army Counterintelligence Special Agent in Europe during the Cold War and later joined the FBI, where she rose to executive leadership and led work spanning counterterrorism, cyber investigations, crisis response, and organizational performance.

She later served as Chief Safety and Security Officer for Los Angeles Metro.

Today, Gina brings those experiences to leaders and organizations navigating complexity, change, and high-stakes decisions. She is the creator of The Maverick Leadership Method™ and hosts the Making Maverick Moves podcast.

Please join me in welcoming Gina L. Osborn.
